Museum Mascots

Ched is a stone lion that guards and patrols the entrance of the Phra Pathom Chedi Museum. While he may look scary and intimidating, he does care and value the safety of visitors.

Han is a proud bronze swan, eager to share knowledge to visitors of the Nakhon Si Thammarat Museum. He loves to answer any questions in a fun way, making sure no one feels bored learning history.
