3 Ways to Restore Your Intimate Health

- Rinse your intimate areas as soon as you're done celebrating, don't let bacteria sit on the skin for too long.
- Skip harsh or alkaline soaps. Use a gentle, pH-balanced intimate wash to help restore your skin's natural balance.
- Change into breathable, natural fabrics so your skin can recover and return to its normal state.

POST HOLIDAY
INTIMATE RESET

- Cleanse: After days of heat, sweat and exposure, gently wash away buildup and reset your intimate balance.
- Rebalance: Get back into a consistent routine that supports your natural pH and microbiome.
- Recover: Switch to breathable fabrics and give your body time to restore and regulate.

THE SUMMER
MICROBIOME

SUMMER READY? FROM THE INSIDE OUT.

High humidity can trap sweat and moisture against the skin, disrupting its natural pH balance.

Awareness starts with the microbiome.
Intimate skin stays healthy at pH 3.8-4.5.
Don't let the summer heat shift your balance.

BRANDED-ORIENTED PACKAGEING
BR!NE

PORTFOLIO 2026

BR!NE

BR!NE is a conceptual homemade pickle brand that brings a fresh perspective to traditional preserved foods through bold colors, playful character design, and witty storytelling. The project explores how a strong visual identity can transform everyday pantry staples into a fun, memorable brand experience, extending across packaging, loyalty cards, stickers, and other branded touchpoints.

NO CHEF, NO PROBLEM

A self-practice project focused on designing 3D forms, exploring color schemes and lighting techniques to evoke emotions effectively.

This piece presents a cozy and inviting kitchen, using soft tones like pastel green and white as the primary color palette.

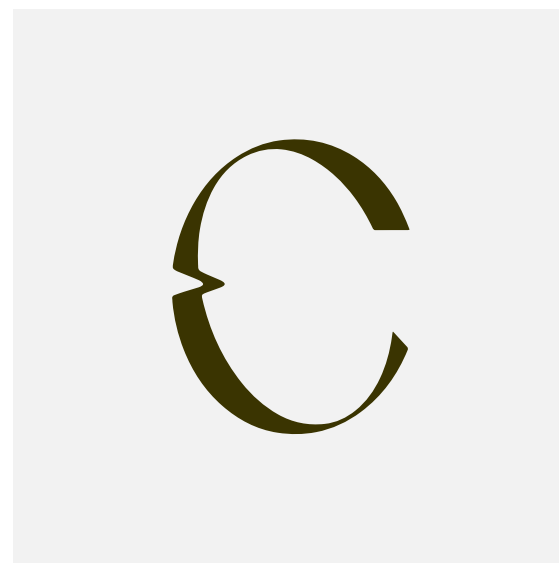

The design balances straight and curved lines, creating a harmonious composition. Warm lighting is carefully arranged to filter through the window, simulating the golden glow of a sunset, enhancing the overall sense of warmth and tranquility.

Brand & Packaging Design Starfruit Skincare

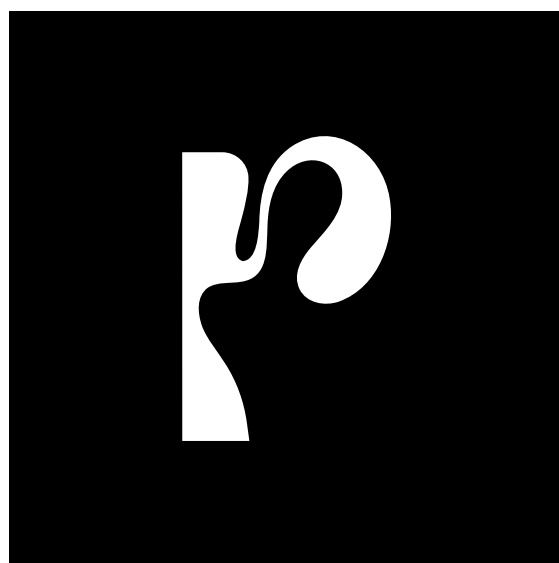

This skincare brand is inspired by the natural properties of carambola (starfruit), a fruit well-known in Thailand but primarily recognized as food rather than a beauty ingredient. With its natural acidity, starfruit is transformed into a skincare solution that helps reduce wrinkles and enhance skin radiance.

The packaging design features a minimal and elegant aesthetic, with green as the primary color to reflect the natural origins of the key ingredient.

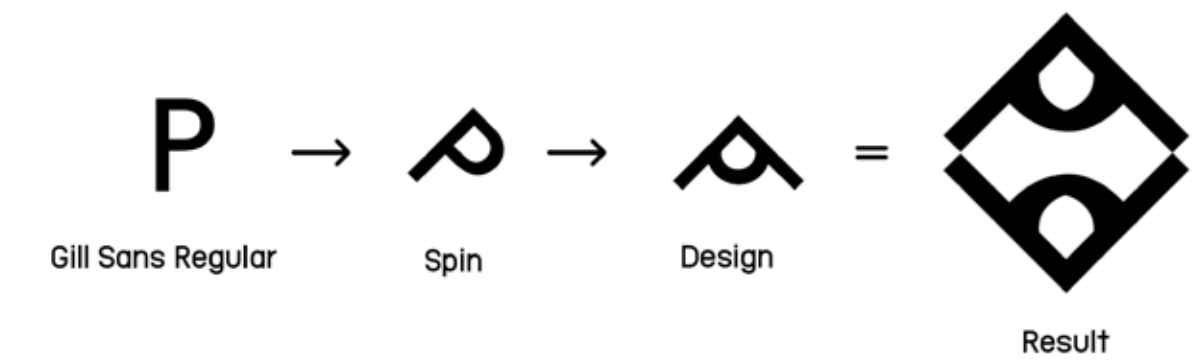

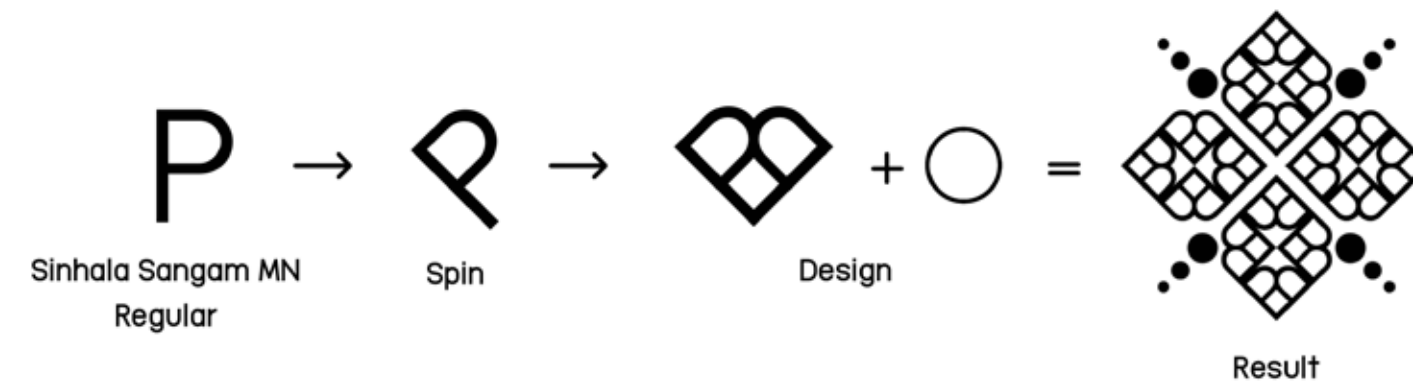

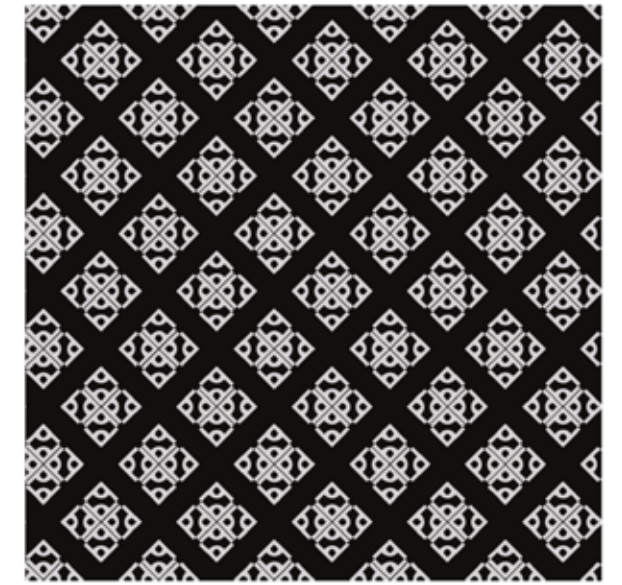

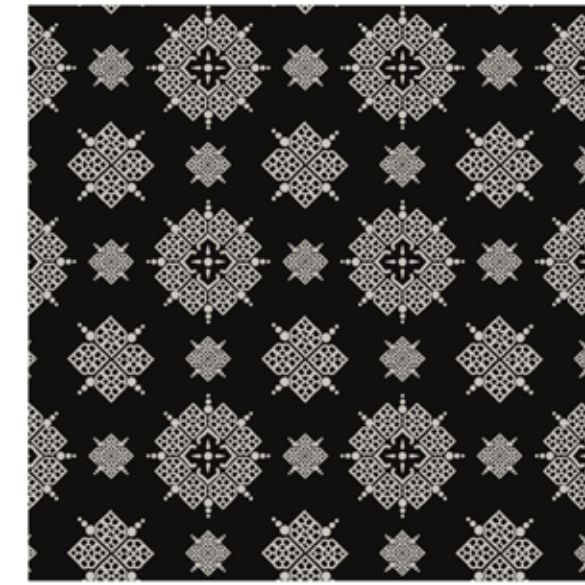

The clean, understated look adds a luxurious touch to the product while maintaining a connection to nature.

PIMPAT

This design approach preserves the essence and meaning of the brand, ensuring it remains both recognizable and luxurious and Thai elegance.

Pattern Design:

For Pimpat, a fashion brand that blends Thai heritage with luxury, the letter "P" is transformed into a series of Thai-inspired patterns.

The design explores various traditional motifs, integrating them with modern composition techniques to create a distinctive and elegant aesthetic.

The arrangement of the patterns emphasizes balance, sophistication, and cultural richness, making each piece visually striking while maintaining a deep connection to Thai artistry.

GUGGENHEIM BILBAO

Design the souvenir for the Guggenheim Bilbao Museum that presents a set of luxurious hair clips, that drawing inspiration from the iconic sculptures displayed outside the museum.

This collection transforms world-class contemporary art into wearable accessories, allowing visitors to take home a piece of their museum experience.

GUGGENHEIM BILBAO

To reflect the museum's avantgarde spirit, the hair clips are designed in a silver finish, enhancing their luxurious and contemporary appeal.

The simplified yet recognizable forms make them both artistic and functional, appealing to art lovers, collectors, and fashionconscious visitors.

MAHASON

The logo is inspired by the intricate weave of the signature green rattan baskets, simplifying the pattern into a more recognizable form.

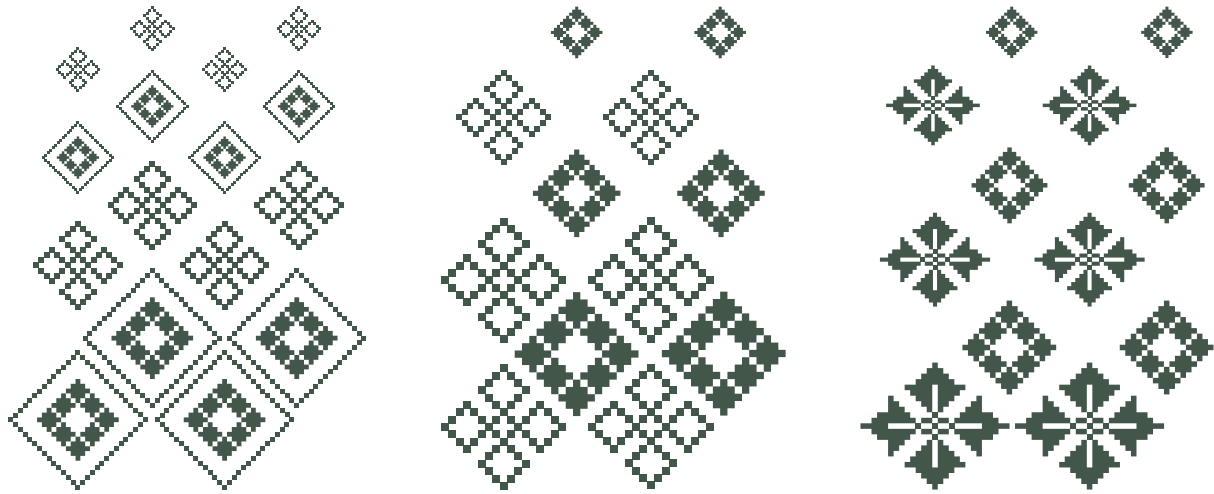

The lime-green color palette—reflecting the natural hues of the original basketry—is integrated into various design elements to maintain a cohesive and visually appealing brand identity.

The identity design draws inspiration from the community's signature woven patterns and colors, incorporating them into a range of modern product applications such as tumblers, food containers, paper bags, and notebooks.

The aim is to extend and develop local crafts into contemporary lifestyle products while preserving their authentic charm.

THANK YOU MUM

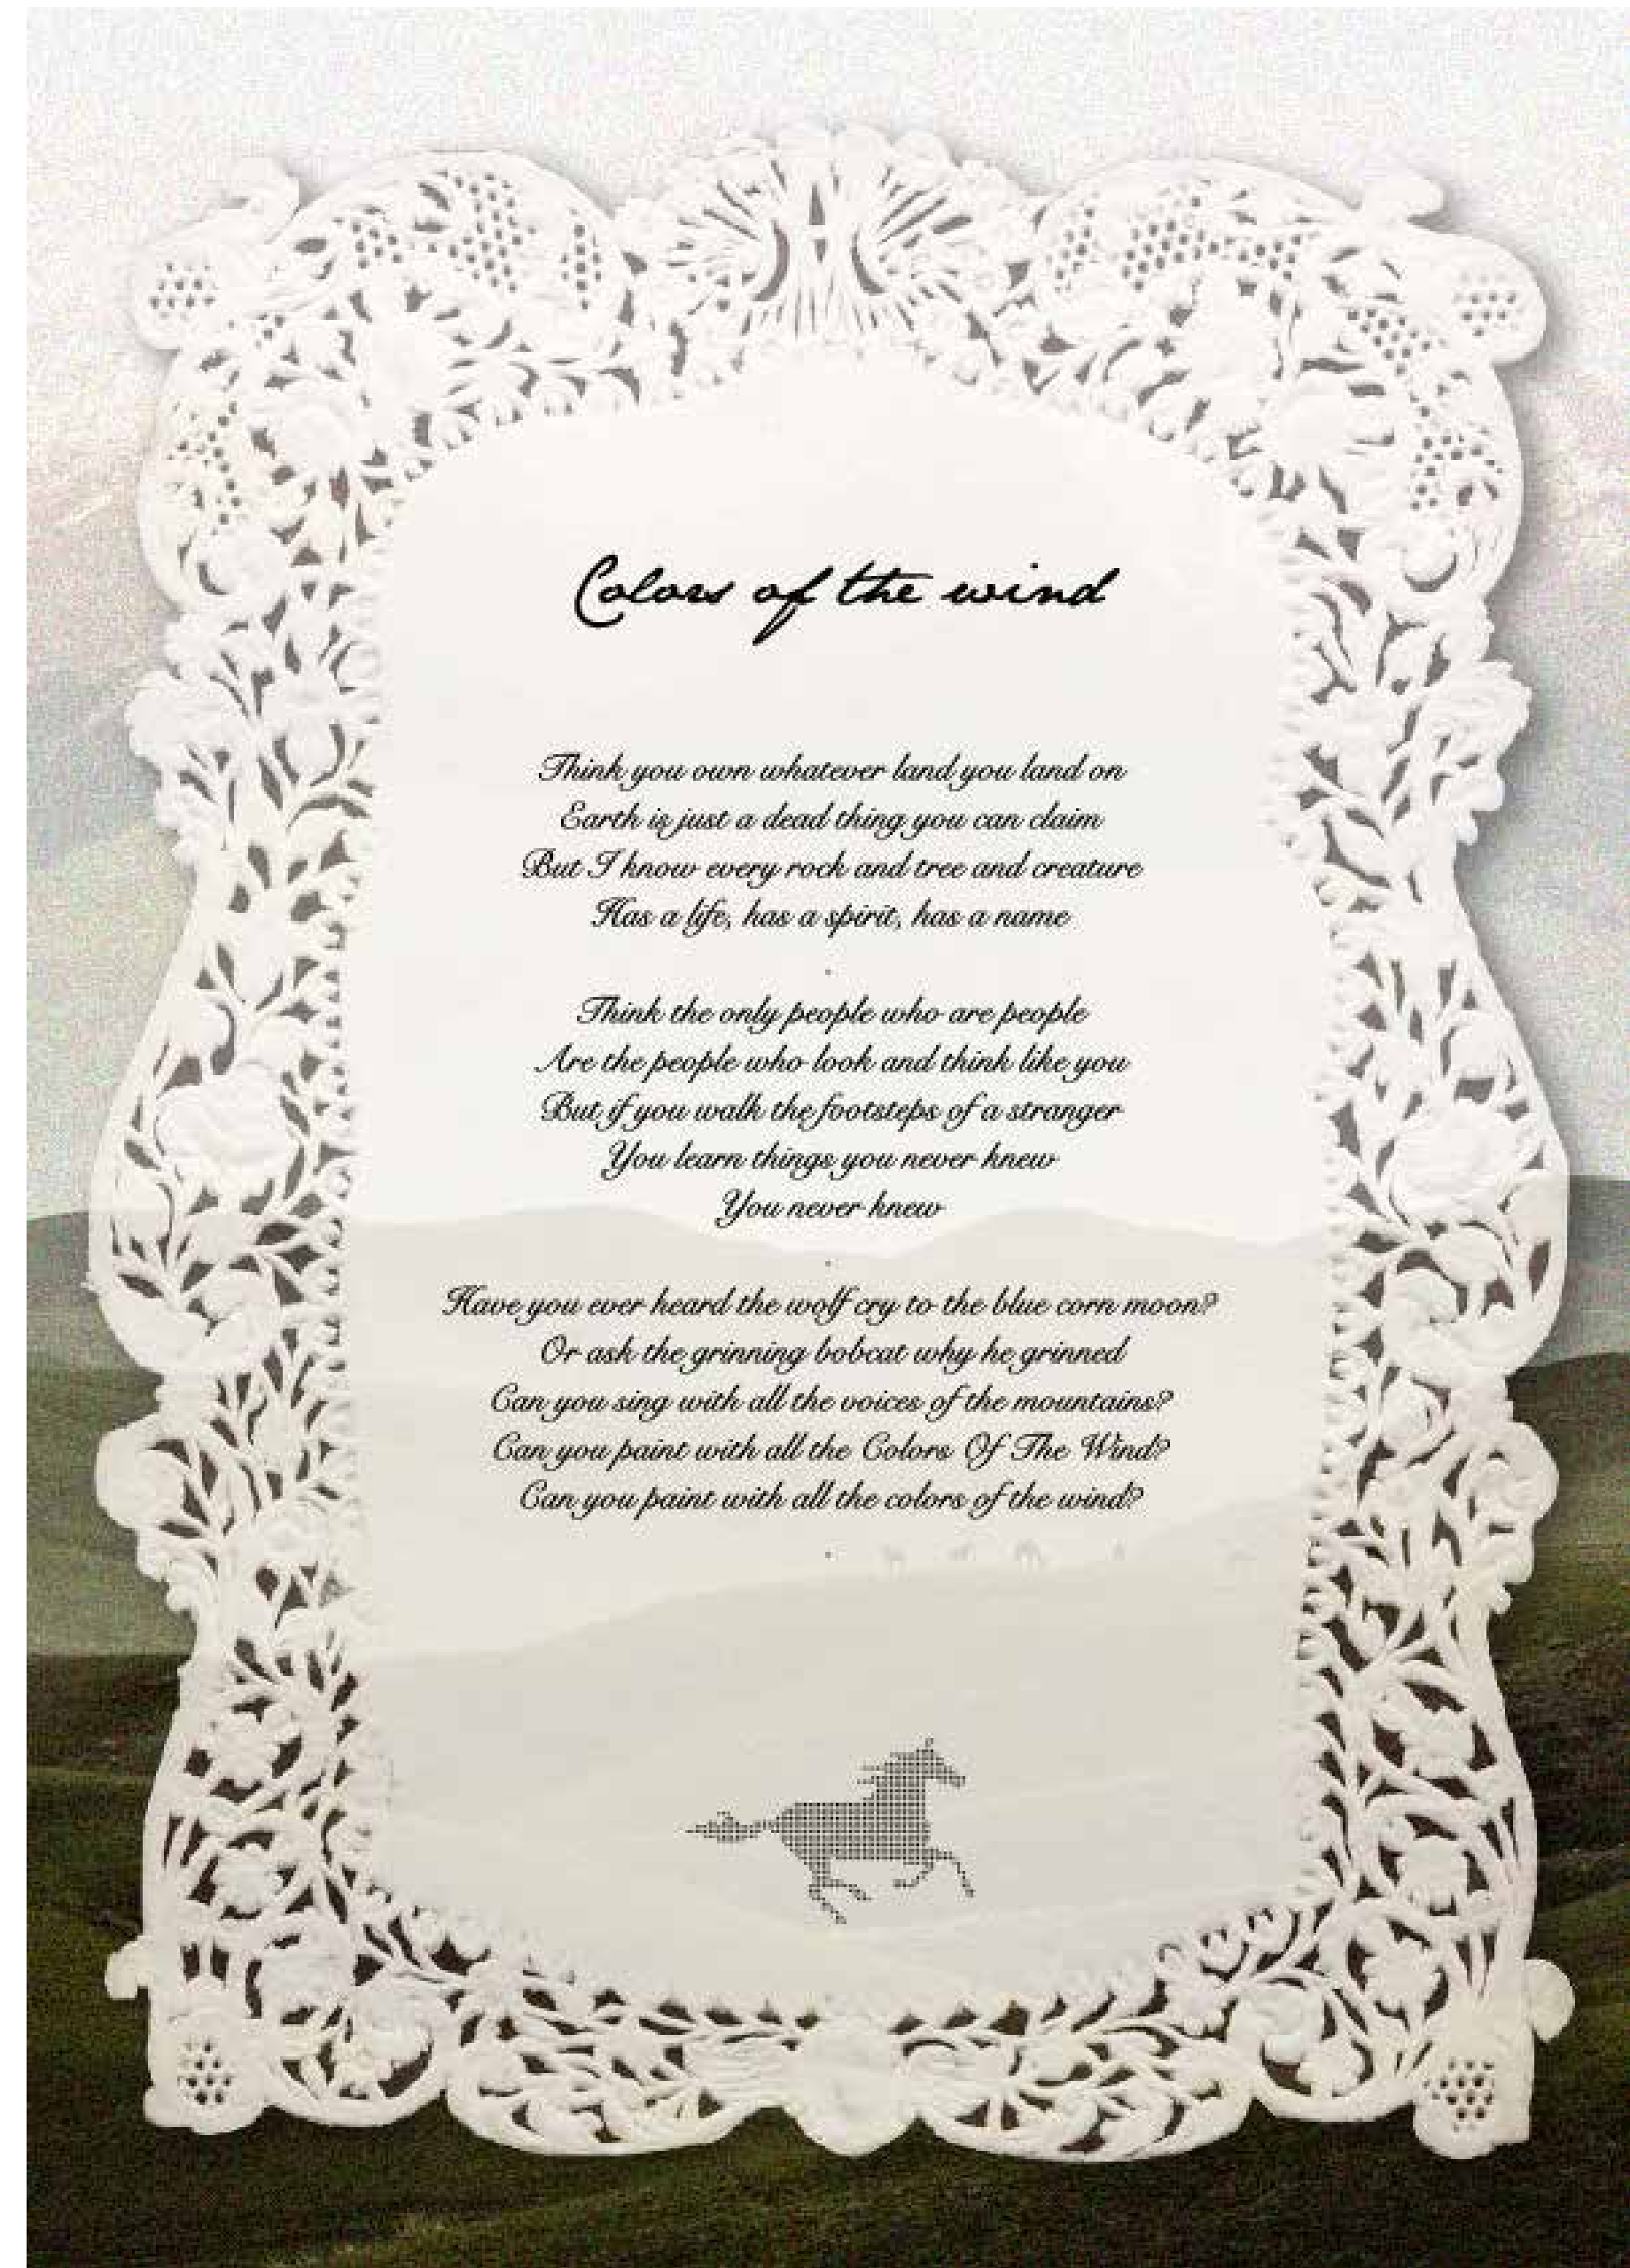

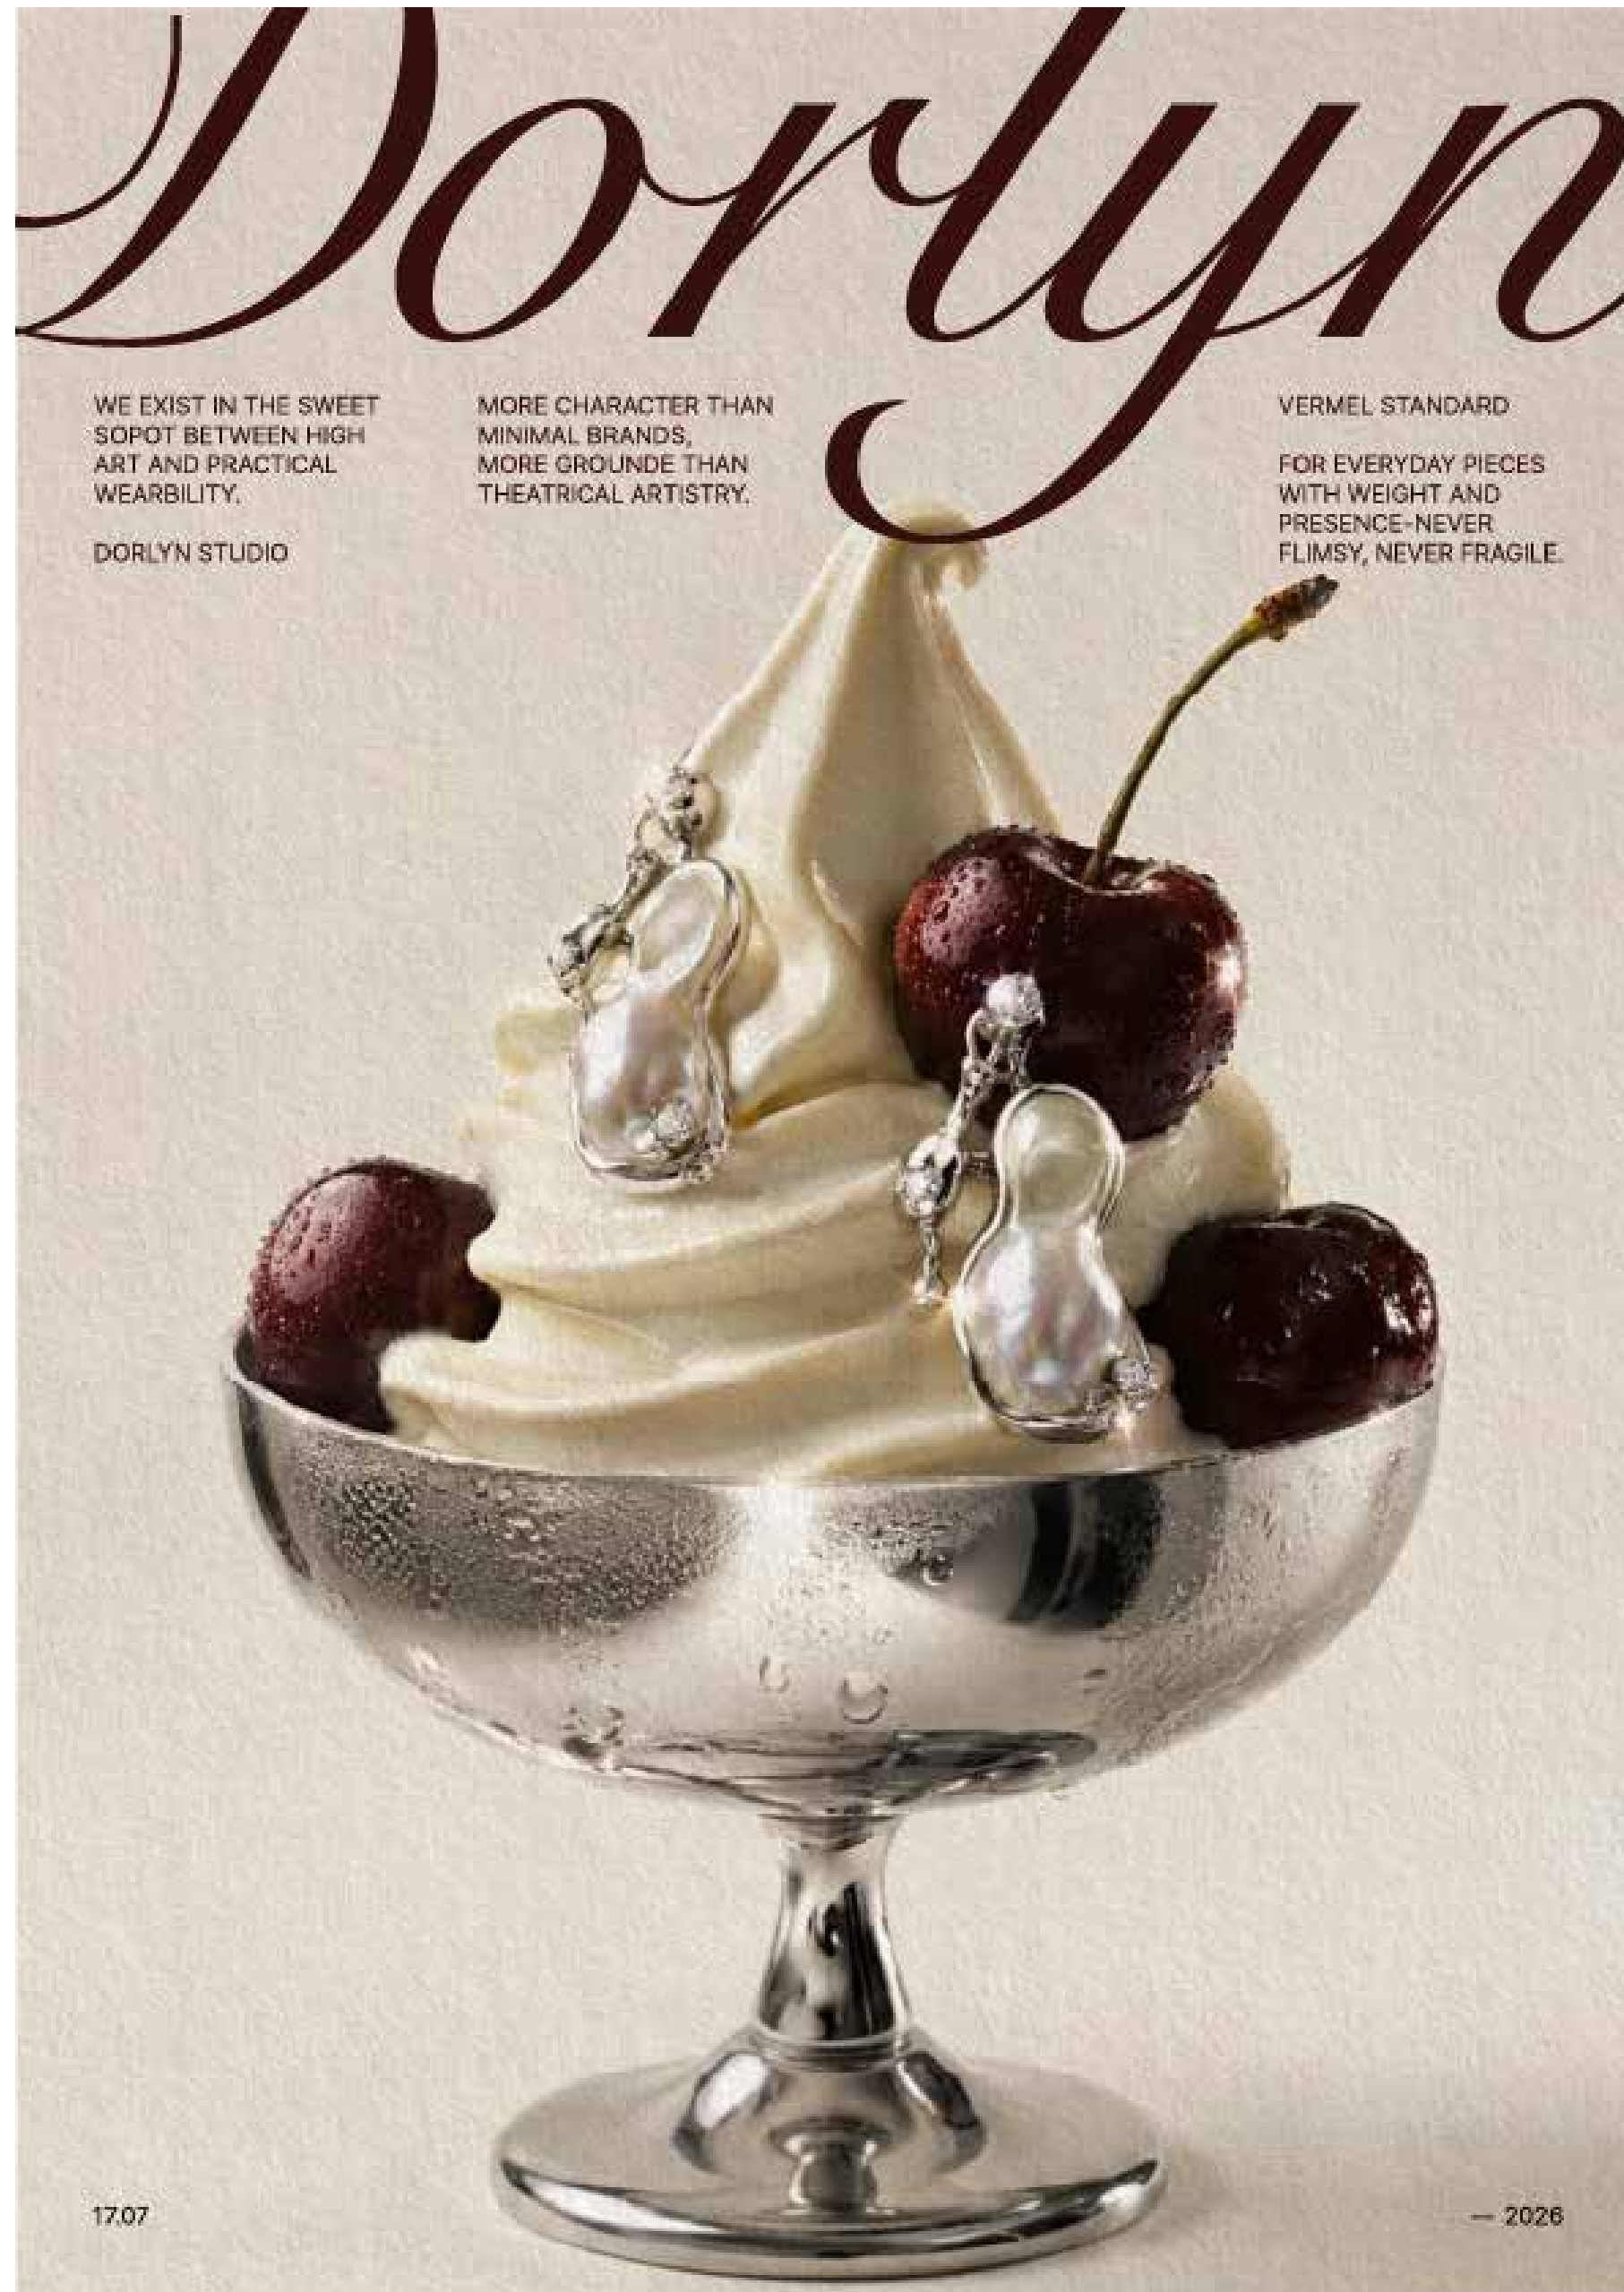

For my final project in Creative Illustration, I created a children's storybook illustration titled Thank You, Mum. This work is inspired by the modern lifestyle, where many people treat their pets as their own children. I imagined: If I were a mother cat, how would I love and care for my kittens?
